

Tax Rate Rises To $54 Level

As more or less anticipated, Andover's tax rate has been officially set at $54 per thousand - a $4 increase over a year ago.

The rate was established and approved by the state department of corporations and taxation this week, according to Assessor William H. Russell.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin informed the selectmen Tuesday night, that he felt the rate should be established now and not wait for rulings regarding objections to some phases of the Cherry sheet disbursements.

Russell reported that the school department portion of the 18-month tax rate was $48.12, or 63 per cent of the total, while general government was $31.88.

This total is $81 for the 18-month period, two-thirds of which must be raised this year, with the balance put off to the first six months of 1974.

As for the $27 figure facing the taxpayers a year hence, this could fluctuate either way. Increased valuation between now and January 1, 1974, will have a definite lowering influence.

Should increased expenses result from special town meetings, then the figure could be revised upwards.

The total amount to be raised by taxation is $17,852,400.

The items which many towns and cities in the Commonwealth are challenging in the Cherry Sheet distributions, are the regional school and school transportation disbursements.

Town Manager Austin informed the selectmen at their meeting Tuesday night that he felt the board should protest the new figures and formulas.

The state decreased the amounts based on pending legislation which will change the distribution formulas.

Austin noted that last year the

New Jersey Man Principal Choice

By Helen M. Eccles

Aurelio Colina, principal of Metuchen, N.J.'s Edgar School, is the top choice of Andover's central administration, South School faculty and South's parent representatives to be new principal of South School, the TOWNSMAN has learned.

The school committee meets Thursday to act on a recommendation to be presented by Personnel Manager Vaughn I. Clapp. There has been a unique involvement of South's faculty and parents in reaching this recommendation.

Clapp would not say which of six finalists the administration will be recommending tonight; but enthusiasm for Colina has become uncontrollable, so strong is the preference for the 42 year old University of Connecticut graduate, who has considerable graduate study, teaching and two assistant principalships behind him.

The election of a new principal is up to the school committee, which will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 in Stowe School. It will act on the administration's recommendation from among five men and one woman finalists, four from out of town, and two from within the system.

Personnel Manager Clapp noted that the Andover school administration in his seven years always has made one recommendation to the committee, which so far has been confirmed in each case by an election. The committee of course holds the administration responsible for the recommendation afterwards.

Faculty judgment has entered the principal selection process before, in the fairly recent cases of principals Jack Coyle, Richard McGrail and A. Gene Frulla. Fellow administrators are asked

No Decision On Mosquitoes

Proponents and opponents of a mosquito control program, aimed at adult insects voiced their feelings before a meeting of the selectmen in the large group room of the high school Tuesday night, with the board announcing at the conclusion of an hour-plus debate that it would render a decision in a week or two.

Opponents, principally conservationists, expressed their feelings that the control program would be ineffective since the spring larvacide program could not be carried out due to weather conditions.

The proponents reiterated their feelings of a year ago asking for relief from the mosquito problem and emphasizing that town meeting in October approved a control program and the selectmen should follow this mandate.

Selectman Alan F. French said that he respects the mandate of town meeting but opposes a plan which would not have been preceded by larvaciding.

French also said he was opposed to spraying in areas where people do not wish such service and also said he does not consider the mosquito problem a health hazard.

Selectman Milton Greenberg said he would follow the mandate of town meeting, the town's chief policy making board. He said a safe and effective program must be worked out and expressed regret at the failure to be able to carry out the spring program.

Greenberg said he would vote for an approved, safe plan for mosquito control.

Selectman Edmund Sullivan said he was not out to violate any conservation policies but believed a moderate program was a reasonable goal.

Chairman Roger W. Collins and Selectman George E. Heseltine, did not indicate their feelings.

Robert Adamsky, 244 South Main St., a doctor of chemistry, told the board that while he was opposed to mosquitoes, he was also opposed to spraying expressing the hope that biological control would be more acceptable.

Dr. Adamsky said he considered municipal spraying against residential will, a violation of personal liberty.

Pays Tribute To Sacrifices

Overcast skies and finally rain failed to dampen the annual Andover Memorial Day tribute, as veterans organizations, town officials, school groups, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts were joined by residents for the parade and services Monday morning.

Principle speaker at the Memorial Auditorium exercises was Capt. Hugh F. Sager, U.S.M.C. and instructor at the Lawrence Reserve Center, who traced the history of America's sacrifices over 150 years.

Capt. Sager noted that this country's growth and stability is due to the willingness to meet the challenges of each new period in our history.

A steady discipline of respect and understanding has been applied in the harsh environment of nine wars and other armed conflicts in America's history, the speaker said.

Since the beginning of history over one million Americans have given their lives in the defense of American freedom, Capt. Sager noted. Commenting on the Vietnam conflict just ended, he described it as America's continuing effort not toward conquest, but hope for the triumph of natural order of freedom.

Commenting on activist movements, Capt. Sager noted that some in this country, "flaunted the enemy's flag, while Americans suffered and died in Vietnam - but why detract from

'The Volunteer' Dedicated With Poignant Message

By Judith B. Avrett

Sixty years ago this month, a statue to the veterans - only soldiers and sailors then - was erected in North Andover. Still standing at the junction of Main and Osgood Streets, in front of the Police Station, the bronze figure is called the "Volunteer."

A parade led the way from the Stevens Memorial Library, then six years old, to the site for the dedication.

Reverend George Edwards Lovejoy opened the ceremony with a prayer and Samuel Dale Stevens gave a speech. On that sunny day in June both men referred to the new era of peace. The date was June 14, 1913.

Hindsight adds some poignancy to the hope of peace, for on August 2, 1914 Germany declared war on Russia. The United States was drawn into the turmoil and by April of 1917 this country declared war, thus entering World War I.

The Volunteer honors men from Andover and North Andover who fought in King Philip's War, 1675-76; the French and Indian Wars of 1710 and 1774, the Revolutionary War of 1776 and the Civil War, 1861-1865. The statue was designed by Mrs. Theodore A.R. Kitson of Quincy, Mass.

The statue is of a young soldier, the base is a plain New England field boulder. The simplicity is in keeping with a small New England town.

At the annual town meeting in March of 1912, $5,000 was appropriated for the memorial. A "Committee on Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial" was directed to proceed with plans. Serving on the Committee were included men with names familiar in the history of the town: Stevens, Eaton, Webster, Farnum, Hogan, Frye, Chickering, Holt, Appleton and Poor.

A report by that committee reads in part, "In these days, when a vision of universal peace is beginning to dawn upon the minds of men, and efforts are being made by earnest and thoughtful citizens to that end, it is nevertheless proper to put in permanent form the estimate of the people of this town of the great services of its soldiers and sailors of the past. Most of them have paid the debt of nature, but even if the time shall ever come when the war drum beats no longer, such monuments as this will and should endure as a memorial of the bravery of those who served in other days."

The parade appears to have been rather modest. Perhaps then, as is true today, the presence of Boy Scouts swelled the ranks. The Girl Scouts were not founded until 1912 in England and probably did not take hold in North Andover until some years later.

In Reverend Lovejoy's prayer, he alluded to the peaceful nature of 1913 and the past horrors of the Civil War. "Mute although this Memorial figure is, it nevertheless speaks to our hearts and eloquently voices deeds of self-sacrifice and valor and a faithfulness which not even death could quench. Such an exhibition we of the living present need as a powerful object-lesson. May it thus appear as forcibly to the youth of this generation, and to those of the future, and may it enable all to hear the voices of those who being dead, yet speak to us."

"We are thankful that the tumult of war has ceased in our land, and the horrors of that long fratricidal strife having passed, we are realizing the blessedness of an era of peace, because we now know that our comrades, the fathers, sons and brothers-whose names we here enshrine-died not in vain."

Stevens also recalled the Civil War and referred to the Revolutionary War. "It certainly is peculiarly appropriate that the citizens of this town erect this monument, for it should be borne in mind that this is historic ground, since it is a matter of record that General Washington with his staff visited

The young lady who unveiled the statue was Miss Dorothy Sewall Farnum, great great granddaughter of Captain Benjamin Farnum of the Continental Army.

The change in times can be observed from an anecdote told by Stevens. Although North Andover cannot be considered anti-military, the town is located in a state known for its activity against the recent Vietnam War. Stevens' story tells of a widow with five sons, four of whom were fighting in the Civil War. When asked if she were not sacrificing too much, she replied that "if one of them should fall and there is need of you (her fifth son) to fill his place, go at once. . ." Stevens commented, "No marble column marks that mother's grace, and as a typical heroine she has never received her full share of praise, but in her answer there was condensed in a single sentence the philosophy which was largely characteristic of the old time New England home."

But in Stevens address there were sentiments that would not have been out of place at last Monday's ceremonies at the Ridgewood Cemetery.

"We realize that false doctrines of government and perverse misconceptions of liberty and right are at work which threaten to undermine the principles which constitute the very genius of the American republic. We realize there is an element in our complex cosmopolitan civilization that needs to learn that constitutional freedom and unbridled license are not synonymous terms - that the responsibilities of citizenship with us are coordinate with its privileges. . . corruption wins not more than honesty' . . ."

As you pass by the Volunteer, now sixty years old, the conclusion of Samuel Dale Stevens' speech might be remembered. "The silent soldier in yonder square perpetually proclaims to the passerby that there is new work to be done, new risks to be assumed, new burdens to be borne, and new victories to be won in the modern world; that today is better than yesterday, that even now 'eternal vigilance is the price of liberty' and it also bids us remember that in the sharp competitions of life while it is written that 'by the sweat of his face shall a man earn his daily bread,' it is also written that 'as ye would that others should do unto you, do ye even unto them'."

Styles change and wars change but there is something constant in basic values and hope.

Training School Reprieve?

Attorney General Robert H. Quinn has ruled that present state law requires that at least one county training school must remain open in Massachusetts.

The ruling was made at the request of the Legislative Committee on Counties and revealed at a recent meeting of the Essex County Commissioners.

The Commissioners had voted last January to close the Essex County Training School at Lawrence effective June 30. The Lawrence school is the last one operating in the Bay State.

Quinn ruled that the state law provides that at least one county training school must be operated by the several counties "separately or jointly."

County Commissioner Edward H. Cahill of Lynn stated that if it is determined the Essex County school must remain operating he believes all counties should participate in the cost.

Earlier the Commissioners received a communication from Mrs. Harry Axelrod, president of the Greater Lawrence Mental Health Center, Inc., seeking to use the school site for a comprehensive mental health center.

John J. Quigley, federal coordinator, reported that Essex County will receive another $210,000 in general revenue sharing funds in July. This will put the amount received to date at more than one million dollars.

Following the session the Commissioners went to Gloucester to view a disputed public landing on the Little River in West Gloucester.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE. Capt. Hugh F. Sager, USMC, delivers the principle address at the annual Memorial Day service held Monday at Memorial Auditorium. Seated at left, Chairman Roger W. Collins of the selectmen, Rev. J. Everett Bodge, of the dignity of sacrifice made by those who have fallen to give voice to our anger and this in some measure satisfaction to the critics."

He described the Vietnam conflict as being the most unselfish sacrifice, since no American gain was intended, and none was made.

Concluding his address, Capt. Sager said: "Now the job is done. American fighting men have left Vietnam, and they left a nation of people who can now defend themselves, who can now govern themselves, who can now find their own progress through freedom. Of the young Americans who fought, and worked, and sacrificed in this war: their patriotism, honor, and devotion to duty has triumphed. They accomplished their mission, and their accomplishments join the list of Valley Forge, Fort McHenry, Gettysburg, Belleau Wood, Normandy, Iwo Jima, and Chosin Reservoir to name a few.

We are here to remember the heroism of Americans - Men who fought and died to give us our freedom, and it would be inappropriate to that memory to cloud it with negative words, because they were, and they remain, a positive breed.

On this Memorial Day, let us remember those who died for freedom, who paid a terrible price for freedom, and whose loss placed an almost unbearable burden on those who loved them: let us also remember the 1361 men still missing in action.

Every American who has made this sacrifice - every Soldier, Sailor, Airman, Coast Guardsman, and Marine - has met the needs of his time, and has given us the gain from his toil - he has given us freedom. In this, I think is the real meaning of glory."

Capt. Sager was introduced by Chairman Roger W. Collins of the selectmen.

Prior to the principal address, Congressman Paul W. Cronin delivered a eulogy honoring Andover's men who paid the supreme sacrifice during the Vietnam conflict.

Comander John C. Doherty of Andover Post 2128, Veterans of Foreign Wars was master of ceremonies and the opening prayer was given by Rev. Jerome W. Holland, O.S.A., pastor of St. Augustine's parish.

Miss Ann Raymond of the Girl Scouts gave a recitation of "In Flanders Field" and Miss Ellen Raymond of the Camp Fire Girls delivered the Gettysburg Address.

Memorial wreaths were placed by Commander Elect Patrick M. Flynn of Post 2128, V.F.W. and Commander Wilfred Blanchette of American Legion Post 8.

Rev. J. Everett Bodge, pastor of South church, gave the benediction.

Prior to the parade and main service of the day, members of V.F.W. Post 2128 and American Legion Post 8, paid tribute to the veteran dead of all wars at special services in all Andover cemeteries. A concluding service was held at Memorial Hall library.

Principal

of each candidate, after interview, "Can you work with this person?" What is new this time is the addition of parents to the selection process.

If the schoolmen go along with the process that Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Seifert (who is out of town this week) has set in motion, of obtaining the considered opinion of the people who will work most closely with the principal - his school faculty and parents, as well as fellow administrators - on each final candidate, then Aurelio Colina will be elected principal of South School.

After hour-long separate interviews of each candidate by parent and teacher groups, Colina had a long lead over other candidates, who were described as a generally strong group. A three person principal-teacher-parent team visited Colina in his own school setting. By last week, the question was not which candidate, but whether Colina, who also is being interviewed by other systems, would take the Andover offer if the school committee extends it.

This question seems answered by the fact that the school administration, is asking for a committee meeting tonight, the event of Chairman Dr. Griggs' departure from the local scene to Huntsville, Ala. for the summer. Clapp had much earlier stated that he never has and would not recommend a candidate without assurance that the candidate would accept election.

Why should Colina accept the Andover bid, if elected? Evidently the salary structure is not that different from Metuchen, N.J., but the school structure is. The chance to lead a flexibly structured school instead of a rather tightly structured one, and to return to New England are cited as appealing to Colina, who is Vermont-born, and raised in Connecticut. Obviously, one's impression of the Andover community and of the quality of fellow-administrators must carry important weight in such a decision.

John Eaton, 233 Andover St., chairman of the parent interviewing group, gave the TOWNSMAN his assessment of the parents' part in the principal-selection process.

"Illuminating, educational and fascinating. Of course the school committee has the final say, but parents appreciate having a voice in the process of selecting a principal they will be working closely with."

Eaton said the group of five parents was chosen from the South School Parent Advisory Council by drawing straws, and turned out to run the gamut of educational opinion, which was a good thing.

The six candidates were interviewed two a day, with the teacher group interviewing one candidate, the parents another, then switching.

Aurelio Colina, who is married, with four children, was graduated from the University of Connecticut in 1958 with a political science major. He obtained his M.S. in elementary education from Western Connecticut College, and has over 30 additional hours of graduate work from the University of Buffalo, New York University, Hofstra and Adelphi University's Lamar Institute of Technology.

His eight years of teaching experience was largely in the sixth grade. He spent two years as assistant principal of the 1,550 pupil Arrowhead Elementary School of East Setauket, which he helped to open and establish, and three years as assistant principal of the Minnesauke Elementary School in Setauket, which had 1,000 pupils. He has been principal of the 21-room, K-5 Edgar School for 470 students since September, 1971.

Colina's master's thesis concerned a perceptual motor development experiment for the physiologically immature first grader.

He lists under educational innovations to his credit open classrooms, integrated corridors, progress reports in behavioral terms, stated school goals, kindergarten screening, ungraded reading programs, pupil-teacher contracts, volunteer aides, and a career education team, among others. He has attended National Science Foundation Workshops for math and for physics-astronomy, sensitivity seminars and workshops on management by objectives, and is a member of the North Jersey Audio-Visual Council, among many professional organizations.

Colina is active in the YMCA Indian Guides, Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, the Little Silver Republican Club.

Mosquitos

He said that chemical companies make a lot of money selling sprays through advertising, but that predatory insects, such as mosquitoes build immunities to the insecticides over a period of time.

Malathion, the chemical to be used, could be harmful to health, Adamsky said, a comment that was countered by Selectman Greenberg who said that the particular spray had been found to be safe by the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens.

Dr. Adamsky then suggested the town take the money appropriated and combine with other communities to work toward elimination of the problem through biological methods.

An obstetrician commented that annual experimentation with insecticides has not proved effective. He also felt the town did not have a right to spray and "subject people to cruel and unusual treatment."

Mrs. Elizabeth Lynch, who led the drive for mosquito control a year ago and at town meeting in October, appealed to the selectmen to carry out the mandate of town meeting.

Mrs. Lynch, commenting on the active seeking of a control program of over a year's duration, said, "We have seen the articles by conservationists, we have heard from medical authorities and it would have been great to have this spring. But the problem is now and we would like to see a controlled professional program."

Mrs. Lynch read from an article in the American Medical Association journal which indicated that biological control of insects would take considerable time to develop in view of the numbers of species and also a statement which said there was no substantial evidence of harm from pesticides.

Chairman Collins said a decision would be given in a week or two.

It is possible the board of health may call a public hearing on the matter, at the suggestion of state health authorities.

Director of Public Works Robert E. McQuade showed a map of areas which would not be sprayed due to the request of residents or groups, such as AVIS or conservation commission which did not want their property covered.

EXHIBIT. Tanja Ryden and Annie Action, give an exhibit of the neutralization of acids as part of the WESTern roundup activity at West Junior High school last Wednesday night.

Elected President of Internists

Dr. George J. Robertson of North Andover has been elected as president-elect (1973-1974) of the Massachusetts Society of Internal Medicine, an organization of 500 physicians in the Commonwealth engaged in the practice specialty of internal medicine.

The Society's primary interest is the study of socio-economic problems involving modern medical care. It is an acknowledged leader in medicine in seeking ways to improve the health delivery systems over a wide range of activities. The Massachusetts group is a component of the 11,000 member American Society of Internal Medicine.

The new president-elect is on the faculty of Tufts University School of Medicine and is a senior staff member at the New England Medical Center Hospital, the major clinical unit of Tufts-New England Medical Center (T-NEMC). At Tufts, Dr. Robertson is assistant professor of medicine and associate dean for continuing education.

He also serves as medical director of the Bingham Associates Fund (BAF). The BAF, founded more than a quarter-century ago to improve health in rural areas, has concentrated its efforts in the State of Maine. With Dr. Robertson's assistance, and the cooperation of others at T-NEMC, the BAF now has links with 54 Maine hospitals.

The Bingham Associates Fund traditionally has directed its limited resources toward improving health care services via the development of regional relationships between T-NEMC and regional hospital centers and community hospitals in Maine.

The North Andover physician also is project director of a multi-million dollar Area Health Education Center (AHEC) sponsored by the Bureau of Health Manpower Education of the National Institutes of Health. This program, which links Tufts Medical School and Maine Medical Center in Portland, has the mandate to develop better distribution of health manpower through educational programs for medical students at the AHEC centers which are at a major distance from medical schools. The AHEC program is the largest in Tufts history to train health manpower, and the only one of 11 national AHEC centers based in a private medical school.

Dr. Robertson is a graduate of both Tufts University and its Medical School. After three years of graduate training in internal medicine at Boston City Hospital and New England Medical Center Hospital, he went to Waterville, Maine, and practiced fulltime for 15 years.

While in Maine, he served as medical director of the Sisters Hospital and director of medical education at the Thayer Hospital, both in Waterville. In 1962 he received the Maine Medical Association's award for outstanding service to the community.

In 1963, he returned to Massachusetts and to the faculty and staff of the Tufts University School of Medicine and New England Medical Center Hospital, after being named medical director of the Bingham Associates Fund.

He currently resides at 1370 Turnpike Street in North Andover with his wife, Lorraine, and their seven children.

Students Visit U.N.

Recently there were many households in Andover that arose before the birds so that the eighth graders in the home could be at West Junior High before 6 a.m. for the annual field trip to the United Nations.

Many who have made this trip in the past regard it as being the most successful. Through the office of Congressman Paul Cronin, it was possible to have a student briefing with representatives of Undersecretary - General F. Bradford Morse's office.

As in the past, the delegation from the U.S.S.R. has been very cooperative. The permanent representative of the Byelorussian Soviet Socialist Republic to the United Nations, Ambassador Vitaly S. Smirnov spoke to the students on the Russian role and attitude towards the United Nations and world affairs. He answered questions for an hour.

Although this trip was sponsored by the social studies department, teachers from other departments volunteered to serve as chaperones for the 210 students who made the trip. The science department was represented by Mrs. Bennie Ebersole, Harry Jamkochian and James Whyte. John Darren represented the math department. Social studies teachers were, Anthony Covino, Bruce Dewire, Mrs. Mary Sipsey and Lester Taylor. Parent volunteers were Mrs. Julian Newland, Mrs. Barbara Pennick, Mrs. Arthur Turesky and Mrs. Norman Vignola.

A Pageant Of Scouting

A day full of Scouting crafts, skills and exhibits and an accompanying pageantry of music, entertainment and special activities is promised when Scout-

O-Rama '73 takes place on Saturday, June 2 on the grounds of Raytheon Company's West Andover Plant, Routes 93 and 133.

The massed Boypower of some 3700 cubs, Scouts and Explorers from 22 Merrimack Valley towns of Massachusetts and New Hampshire has been busily engaged for many weeks preparing their special exhibits and selling tickets for Scout-O-Rama '73.

Most of the popular and long-standing Scouting activities will be shown, including an actual campsite area, as well as a number of different and unusual exhibits. Raytheon Company's 5 million gallon pool will be used by some troops for special water demonstrations.

Hundreds of adult leaders and committeemen have been hard at work to make Scout-O-Rama '73 one of the Merrimack Valley's greatest outdoor attractions.

The Master of Ceremonies at the stage center will be Dave Scott and music will be presented by the Clan MacPherson Bagpipe Band and the Newbury Marine Militia Fife and Drums.

One of the special guests who will attend is Eddie Westfall of the New York Islanders of the NHL, formerly of the Boston Bruins.

The show will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and tickets at $1 per person can be purchased at the entrance. Children under 14 admitted free.

The rain date will be Sunday, June 3.

Anticipating Demand Is Being Facilitated

By Gary C. Ralph

I spent a part of last Monday night at the High School tennis courts. The Recreation / Community School Department's tennis lessons for elementary students were beginning. We had prepared two battle plans for our tennis lessons. If 15 or 20 youngsters registered for class we planned to hold a single session. If more than 20 registered, we'd hold two sessions, one from 6-7 p.m. and a second from 7-8 p.m. These contingency plans were the result of a hard learned lesson.

Last summer we rather naively offered a weekly session in gymnastics for children. We were inundated by kids eager to imitate Olga Korbut and Kathy Rigby, 200 of them in fact. We kept adding more sessions and hiring assistants for our instructor and somehow managed to accommodate all the children. It was done somewhat inefficiently. We got some feedback that it was hard to keep up with the changes in scheduling. By this winter we had organized the Elementary Gymnastic classes on a more solid basis. We had a very successful season. It remains one of our most popular courses.

So, Monday night, when 40 eager students of tennis arrived for class, we weren't thrown into confusion. We divided the group in half, each half assigned to a time slot so the classes will be small enough for individual attention where needed. We're fortunate in having a talented tennis instructor, Keng-Jen Lee who is a Physical Education teacher at the High School. He enjoys working with young children and the kids certainly enjoy him.

In addition to these evening lessons, we'll be offering tennis lessons as part of our summer Interest / Enrichment program.

The lessons will be available at five locations. Registration for the lessons is being taken now at the Recreation / Community School office.

By the way, interest in gymnastics remains high and we'll be holding classes for elementary students on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the High School beginning on July 2. Richard Ferguson is in charge of the program again this year.

We'll be trying to anticipate demand in our scheduling of the different classes and activities for youngsters but we are prepared to be flexible.

'Sanbarn' Dance Held

Sanborn School pupils and parents had a day without rain yesterday for the annual "Sanbarn Dance", an outdoor pupil demonstration of movement education and the rhythmic approach to physical education and music.

The annual event, an end of the year dress-up and celebrate demonstration, involves 300 children, and about 500 adults, Principal Joseph Normandy said, and a good time, so the sunshine was especially appreciated.

Little Nostalgia As Final Graduation Nears

How does it feel to be a member of Abbot Academy's last graduating class?

The TOWNSMAN quizzed several local seniors and found no funereal sentimentality at all - instead a keen interest and confidence in the future of the school which will graduate them in June, and a few days later cease to exist as a separate entity by combining into Phillips Academy to begin a coed school next fall.

"How does it feel to be in the last graduating class of Abbot?"

Christine Landry of Andover pondered. "Not much different, I think. I've been here four years, and we knew all the time that coeducation was inevitable. Next year will be good. If I was still staying, instead of graduating, I'd be glad about the coed school."

The very last girl to graduate from the oldest incorporated girls academy in America will probably be Ellen Hoitsma, "Because I think I'm the tallest in the class, and that's how we come up. I feel a little nostalgic, but very confident that next year will be successful. It is sad to see the little things that are nice about Abbot end -- the small size, the closeness of faculty and students -- but this can happen at the coed PA too. I'm lucky, because our family lives on the PA campus, so I'll be back to visit and see how it's coming every time I come home. It'll be harder for the boarding students to do that."

Principal Don Gordon had predicted to the TOWNSMAN that, whatever the public expected the seniors' feelings to be, they actually would "place more emphasis on continuity of purpose than on discontinuity of form." Or, stated more plainly, they are more interested in the future life of the combined coed academy than in the end of Abbot Academy. Coordinated classes mean that many girls take half their classes on the Phillips campus, and PA boys by the hundreds have a class or more at Abbot. Besides, says Gordon, the strong feelings of sadness many Abbot girls felt when the combination of the two schools was announced last fall "has had a chance to vent itself piecemeal since then."

To a great extent he is right. Ann Palermo of North Andover bears him out. "I'm sorry it's going to be Abbot's last, but the two schools are so close now it seems it's just things like yearbooks and graduations that are still separate. Everything else seems already together. I'm attached to Abbot-PA, not just to Abbot. We were upset at first, when it was announced last fall, but that's worn off. It was inevitable. I feel as much at home on that campus as I do here. We were really brought up as Abbot-PA kids the past couple of years."

But Ann Spader of North Andover enters a minority opinion. "I'm glad I'm not going to be here for the next year. I think it's going to be a hard year for everyone. I'm glad to have gone to Abbot, and I'm glad I'm graduating from Abbot. And it is sad, some things and ways here that are ending. But it is going to be interesting to see how it works out."

"It's the end of a long

Abbot Academy, now at the point of combining with Phillips Academy to form a coeducational Phillips Academy, began its days in 1828 because a group of "highminded and farseeing citizens of Andover thought young women should have educational opportunities similar to those given their brothers."

After the combination into Phillips on June 29, those opportunities will be not just similar but the same.

Historic View Of Abbot

The school opened for its first session on May 6, 1828, under the principalship of Charles Goddard, and an 1836 curriculum gives evidence of the "high demands" spoken of in the constitution: By the end of the school year, a girl would have completed a course of study in each of the following well known texts; Arithmetic; Algebra; Euclid;

Arrangements are made to meet the high demands, corresponding with the progress of public sentiment on the subject of female education, and with its consequent improvements and the Trustees feel a confidence, that the just expectations of the parents and friends of the young ladies who may enjoy the advantages of this school will not be disappointed."

English Grammar; Geography; Geography of the heavens; Philosophy of Natural History; Natural Philosophy; Botany; Chemistry; Moral Sciences, and Intellectual Powers.

All branches of history were introduced in 1839, and the study of national and state government. Abbot introduced a four year course in English literature before the field had been admitted into the curriculum of most schools and colleges. In 1862, oriental, classical and modern European literature was added to the course of study, according to the notes of Miss Margaret Hearsey, a famous Abbot headmistress of a quarter of a century ago.

Abbot Female Academy became a boarding school after 1854, when the trustees decided to raise $8,000 to provide suitable accommodations for the boarding of pupils who formerly had boarded with Andover families.

Smith Hall, the new dormitory, was built behind Abbot Hall, about where Draper now stands. Abbot Hall, the original building, occupied the middle of what is now the Circle just inside the gate.

Harriet Beecher Stowe organized a highly successful "Festival" and raised $2,000 to furnish Smith Hall. Mrs. Stowe's husband was a Phillips teacher, and her three daughters were enrolled at Abbot.

In 1859, Miss Philena McKeen, a distinguished headmistress and moneyraiser for the school, came to Abbot. She found the total teaching equipment was a bookcase, a case with a few minerals, a magic lantern with slides, a few maps and pictures, an oil portrait of Madam Abbot and a steel engraving of the Stowes. Within three years, Miss McKeen had raised the money to buy much needed equipment, and refurbish the Abbot buildings.

More buildings were erected, and in 1884 Miss McKeen was given a years leave of absence to raise $150,000 to build a new large dormitory - Draper - the massive main building of Abbot. The drive was still short when the trustees received a succinct letter which tied up the fund drive: "I propose to increase my subscription from $3,000 to $25,000. Warren F. Draper, Andover."

In 1904, McKeen building, for classrooms and the auditorium, was completed, and named in tribute to Miss Philena McKeen, headmistress for 33 years, and her sister, Miss Phebe McKeen, teacher for 30 years. Other buildings were added, such as the John Esther Art Gallery, and the Antoinette, Taylor Hall Infirmary.

Meanwhile, the Academy grew intellectually, under a succession of distinguished principals and faculty, the Abbot Alumnae Association was formed in 1871, to form a bond of loyalty and support between alumnae and the school and its faculty.

Abbot Academy entered the twentieth century as a strong young women's academy and her reputation grew.

By then, the "theologues" of the seminary had moved to Newton, but Phillips Academy remained.

The young ladies and men were aware of each other's existence, but regulations did not encourage contact between the Abbot and Phillips students.

Even in the twentieth century, young women received remonstrances for speaking to the boys as they passed, and Phillips Students could only visit on Sunday afternoons for years.

Cooperation was closer in the 1950's, with dances and participation of Abbot girls in PA dramatic productions, under PA Headmaster John Kemper and Abbot Principal Mary Crane.

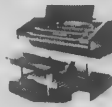

Co-ordination between the two schools began when Donald Gordon, the present principal of Abbot and the late John M. Kemper, Phillips headmaster began exploring co-education with their trustees about five years ago.

Coeducation became a reality last September with the new Phillips Academy Headmaster Theodore R. Sizer, who announced the joining of the two facilities at his installation.

tradition," says Lisa Keller of North Andover, "but it will be a lot better in following years." Christine Jablonski is an Andover resident, but she has been a boarding student this year and feels it gave her more personal freedom to be with her friends, without having her family taxi her over all the time. So she has both the viewpoint of the day girl and the boarder. She has loved it.

"Being in Abbot's last class? I don't have any feeling - I'm keeping it as far back in my mind as I can. I've had four years here and I've loved it. Being Abbot's last hasn't really hit us, yet. Or maybe it already has hit us, last September, and we're over that. I didn't even have any regrets about the last Abbot Bazaar, but I can understand that many alumnae did come with that feeling, and we all enjoyed it."

What seems a lack of sentiment over the end of Abbot can be attributed to a lack of sense of tradition noticeable in young people today. On the other hand, it can be a healthy emotional attitude. Abbot's "death" really occurred last fall for many girls, and Abbot's future life began to pick up momentum from that point. From that point of view, Commencement itself does not feel like the sharp edge of an ending place - it is the end of a stage, for Abbot, and certainly for these seniors.

As Ann Palermo put it "It may

Foot Care To Be Topic For Meeting

The Merrimack Valley Diabetic Education Program, Inc. will present a program on "Foot Care And The Diabetic" on Tuesday June 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the Andover High School.

The speaker will be Dr. Rob. Roy McGregor D.P.M., Chief of Podiatry Service at the New England Deaconess Hospital.

The group would like to ask anyone who is interested in foot care to make every effort to be present. It will be the last meeting of the season.

Miss Joelyn Lawson, daughter of Mrs. Josephine D. Lawson of 16 Carmel Road, Andover, was awarded a Bachelor of Arts degree at the forty-ninth annual commencement exercises held Sunday, May 27 at Marymount College, Tarrytown, N.Y.

Johnson In Recital On Monday

Mark Johnson, a member of the senior class at Phillips Academy, will present a piano recital on Monday, June 4, at 7 p.m. in Kemper Auditorium, Phillips Academy.

Included in the program will be the Sonata in C major of Mozart, the Arabesque Op. 18 of Schumann and Sonata in A flat major Op. 26 of Beethoven.

Mark has been a student of Albion Metcalf for the past two years and previously studied with Keith Gould of Andover. He has recently been accepted into the Young Adult Program of the Boston University Tanglewood Institute where he will have the opportunity to study under Dr. Bela Boszormenyi-Nagy, chairman of the piano department at Boston University.

There is no admission charge for the Monday concert to which the public is invited.

be Abbot's last, but it's our first!"

"We're not trying to have a very traditional commencement," was Liza Keller's opinion. We're not going to dwell on the past too much. It's not good. You have to look forward to the future." Barbara Contarino of Andover agrees. "It's sad it's the last commencement for Abbot, but I'm eager to see how it turns out and I know it'll turn out well."

"How do I feel about being in the last class to graduate from Abbot - It's an honor!" says Nancy Clifton. "I feel more about the combination, which is good, that I do about 'the last class,' but I've been here for four years, and I'm happy to be graduating from Abbot itself, to have had it Abbot all the way, for me."

Astros 14, Cardinals 12 The entire Astros team played great offensive and defensive ball in gaining this win.

The whole Cardinal team contributed equally to a fine offensive effort. On defense the Cardinals registered the first triple play of the season when the pitcher snared a short pop up and threw to first to catch one runner while the first baseman, in turn, fired to the plate to nail a second runner. Jeff Barlow made two excellent catches of outfield flies to round out a fine defensive effort for the losers.

Pirates 16, Giants 3 - The Pirates displayed a savage offense and a superb defense in trouncing the hapless Giants. The Pirates executed 3 double plays and tagged out 3 men attempting to steal third, for the greatest defensive effort since the Alamo. Ted Teichert participated in the three tag plays and also lofted a grand slam home run to gain the MVP honors for the night. Andy Cobin belted out 3 hits in 3 trips to the plate. Larry Morocco and Philip Kirkland split the pitching chores in a masterful game.

For the losers, Scott Boucher, Dave Menard and Sean Flanigan paced the offensive while Tim Whitton did a magnificent job behind the plate.

Phillies 12, Dodgers 11 - Trailing at one time by a score of 8-0, the red hot Phillies demonstrated class and character as they nosed out the Dodgers in a hard fought contest. Eric Koromhas doubled with the bases loaded, Robert Johnson doubled in 2 runs, Dan D'Amelio got 3 hits in 3 times at bat while Joe Durant knocked in the tying run, thereby, setting the stage for a walk which forced in the winning run to lead the offense for the battling Phils.

Scott Lindstrom, Samuel Chernak and Greg Russell wielded the big bats for the losers while Chernak gave a very creditable performance on the mound.

Astros 12, Braves 2 - The whole Astros' team played equally superb on both offense and defense in securing this victory.

Mike Donehue lashed out 2 hits in 3 appearances while Richard Neville, Chris Witt and Robby Serbagi banged out a bingle apiece to lead the Braves' attack. Robby Serbagi and Jim Gardner divided the pitching stint and Mark Annick did a great job behind the plate for the losers.

Cardinals 16, Redlegs 10 - John Taylor, Peter Goriansky and Jim Thompson, came up with good solid hits while Russell Savrann laid down a beautiful bunt to lead the Cardinals back into the victory column. A fine catch of a long fly by Paul Hempstead was the best play on defense for the winners.

A long two base hit by John Perowski and an unassisted double play by Douglas Starkweather were the big happenings for the losing Redlegs.

Giants 10, Dodgers 8 - David Menard pitched an excellent game yielding only 5 walks while banging out a triple to help the Giants' cause. Mike Lynch belted a home run out of the park and played superb ball at short while Sean Flanigan, Henry Woodworth and Tim Whitton knocked 2 hits in 2 times at bat to star for the winners.

Ron Boothby collected 3 hits, Mark Winer chipped in a home run along with good all-around defensive play and Bruce Tallman executed a superb play at second base to afford some consolation to the Dodger fans.

Phillies 14, Pirates 5 - The courageous Phillies inflicted the first loss of the season on the league-leading Pirates in this contest. Joe Durant bashed out 3 hits and Robby Johnson and Eric Koromhas banged out 2 hits apiece to wield the big bats for the winners. Sean Burt and Matt Cremonni teamed up in a great pitching effort, David Gagnon played a classy all around game, and Joe Durant looked real sharp in a fine tag play at the plate to round out a successful evening for the Phils.

John Gercoe hammered out 2 extra base hits and Bruce Barnhill gave a good pitching performance for the Pirates.

Dodgers 14, Cardinals 8 - Tremendous pitching by Sam Chernak, 4 hits for Mark Winer including a home run, another four bagger by Dave Chechik, 3 hits by Ron Boothby and great offensive and defensive play by Rusty Morrison spelled victory for a scrappy Dodger team.

For the Cardinals a triple by Scott Wilson and a nice catch by Paul Hempstead at first base were the big plays of the evening.

Giants 19, Redlegs 15 - Dave Grant came in to relieve in the fourth inning and struck out 5 of the remaining batters as his mates pounded out a solid victory over the winless Redlegs. Grant also garnered 4 hits in 5 appearances including 2 doubles. He received great offensive support from Brian McGettrick who belted out 5 bingles in 5 appearances including a two base hit while playing good defensive ball at second, Sean Flanigan who hammered out 3 hits in 5 turns at the plate including a double and a homer, Tim Whitton who collected 3 for 5 including a double and Mark Robichard who also notched 3 for 5.

For the luckless Redlegs, 3 hits including 2 doubles by Tom Busta and some heads up base running by Stephen Bernard were the silver linings in the dark clouds of defeat.

Phillies 12, Astros 11 - The Phillies were behind 7-1 at the end of 2 innings but by virtue of excellent base ball had tied the score at the end of the regulation 6 innings. They gave up 2 runs in the top of the seventh but came roaring back in their half of the seventh. Dan D'Amelio was the super hero belting out a savage double which scored the final 2 runs for an important victory. Charles Kolodgy with 4 hits including a triple and Peter Lampson with 2 hits were also big stickers for the winners.

The Astros again came up with a well balanced team performance which just barely failed in obtaining the win.

Pirates 21, Braves 10 - Joe Lahood and John Gercoe hit home runs while Daniel Shea and Larry Marocco each collected 2 hits to spearhead the offense for the Pirates.

For the Braves, Richard Neville homered, Andy Weil and Mark Easton both belted out a brace of doubles, Bill Scheerer who was outstanding on defense tripled knocking in 2 runs and Chris Richards doubled to star in the losing cause.

FINANCIAL ACCURACY IS A TOUGH NUT.

UNLESS STANDARD DATA IS YOUR NUT CRACKER.

Do you really know what has happened during a month when you close the books? Chances are you never really have a truly accurate picture of your financial situation.

In fact, most businesses don't have the financial accuracy they need for control. And getting such controls at your price is indeed a tough nut to crack.

Fortunately, an excellent "nutcracker" is now available. It's STANDARD DATA. And it works like this:

STANDARD DATA's staff of experts and its mammoth computer are available for your accounting and management systems. We've developed financial and manufacturing management programs, such as payables, receivables, payroll, even general ledger, and inventory control.

Best of all, STANDARD DATA can get cracking for you today on a job-by-job basis. So regardless of the nut you have to crack, give STANDARD DATA a crack at it... it only costs peanuts.

I'm interested in the STANDARD DATA approach. Please send me more information about how your "nutcracker" can help solve our problem in the area of:

The Yankees were led by the hitting of Weinroth with a single and a double, Ben Bram with two singles and a double, and Mark Neistadt with two singles and a double. Ben Bram played an outstanding game at third base as did Mark Neistadt in center field for the Yankees.

Tigers 20, Orioles 16. The Tigers won a slugging duel as Joel Smith hit for the cycle with 9 RBI's. The Tigers also got a three run home run from Ira Gold while the Orioles got a big home run from Mike Franese and three hits each by Jim Allen and Gil Nicholas.

White Sox 13, Red Sox 2. Ken Levanti pitched a strong ten strike out one hit ball game. The White Sox got heavy hitting from Gerry Jannetti with a grand slam home run. Ken Taylor played well at third base for the White Sox. Randy Mitton got a solid base hit to spoil Levanti's no hit bid.

Senators 10, White Sox 6. The Senators scored six runs in the first inning highlighted by a grand slam home run by Scott Elliott. Jay Wallis had three hits for the Senators. Mike Dion pitched well for the White Sox after a rocky beginning. Robert Faigel of the Senators threw out a runner at the plate to stop a big rally by the White Sox in the second inning. Taylor, Dion, and Trainor each had two hits for the White Sox.

Tigers 17, Yankees 4. Tigers continued their home run and hitting barrage as they had home runs from Joel Smith, Ira Gold, Terry Reilly, and David White. Carl Reinker was the winning pitcher. The Yankees had a home run from Gene Bernhard.

Angels 7, Red Sox 6. Tom Hetley who played a strong game as short stop for the Angels singled in the last inning and after moving up scored on a single by Mike Murray for the win. Rick Rotolo had three hits and both Rich Marciano and Jim Marciano played very well in the field for the Angels. The Red Sox got two home runs from Terry Schwing in a losing cause.

Patriots 15, Orioles 14. The Patriots continued to stay in the thick of the pennant race as they won over the Orioles. Mike Beatty went 3 for 3 with two doubles and a long home run. Todd Zimmerman had a double and a single and Dave Gusmini had a single and two triples. Dalton pitched the entire game for the Patriots and was tough in the clutch. Dave Gusmini made things a little easier as he made a key double play at second base. The Orioles had heavy hitting from Jim Allen with a double and two singles and Franese with a single, double and a triple. Both Allen and Franese played well in the field.

Twins And Padres In Top Sports

American League
Twins	4-0
Athletics	1-2
Bruins	0-3

National League
Padres	4-0
Cubs	2-2
Mets	1-2
Expos	0-3

The nine year old division of the Andover Minor Leagues is off to a fast start with the boys showing fine hustle, spirit, and talent. The teams are grouped by neighborhoods, and as is always the case some teams start the season with superior pitching talent, while the others must develop their pitchers as the season progresses. The two unbeaten teams show the results of steady pitching.

The twins Michael Chiklis, Jeff Lindquist, and Peter Rokicki have held the opposition to less than six runs per game as solid hitting from Craig Lebowitz, Glen Obermeier, and Jay Robbins have brought home the runs. The second-place Indians on the other hand have scored 55 runs against 46 for the opposition, playing exciting wide-open baseball. The Athletics team is beginning to jell behind several exceptional players, Gary Forbes and John Maginnis. The Bruins are also showing great enthusiasm for the game and daily improvement.

In the National league the Padres have the pitching of Peter Crabtree, Geoffrey Edmonds, Brian Moriarty and Doug Price, and that alone seems to be enough as the Padres pitchers have allowed less than five runs per game. The catching of Al Cullen and Dana Demers has helped the pitchers, and the consistent hitter has been Doug Price. The hustling Cubs are well balanced both defensively and offensively, holding down second place.

The Mets play a very tight game indicative of a good training program. J.P. Fitzgerald is a fine first baseman and hitter, Gary Milne has been the sharpest pitcher, and Connie Twomey (3b), Bernard Kavanaugh (c) and Chris Morrison have been big contributors hitting and fielding.

The Expos have had all close, well-played ball games. Michael Walsh has been a heavy hitter sharing catching duties with Andrew French. Benjamin Tober and Eric Teichert have done fine pitching.

The objective of this league is to develop the players' style and knowledge of the game. Winning is important to the boys but secondary to the league, with instruction and a chance for the boys to learn and plan the positions being paramount. The standings will be published periodically due to the interest of the boys.

Summer Jobs Still Needed

This summer, there will be over 1500 students seeking jobs. Not all of them will find one, and others may have to accept jobs not suitable for them. This is where the Merrimack Valley Summer Jobs Program comes in.

The Merrimack Summer Jobs Program is sponsored primarily by the National Alliance of Businessmen, with the help of others such as the Chamber of Commerce, the government, and the schools. The Program visits employers to list jobs, registers the in-school youth, and matches the jobs to people at the job centers. Impressive as it seems, the Merrimack Valley Summer Jobs Program is still greatly lacking for job listings.

There are three reasons why businessmen should consider the program: 1. It helps the company - a motivated youngster is a productive one; also your interest in the students will enhance your company's reputation; 2. It helps the youngster - every student faces the problem of choosing a career and you can help him gain the confidence he needs to face tomorrow; 3. It helps the community - the first understanding of the value of work can help them become serious, responsible citizens.

To list jobs, call at any of these centers - Greater Lawrence, 444 Canal St., 688-5323; or National Alliance of Businessmen, 176 Church St., Lowell, 459-0113.

Mosquito Aid For Dogs Found

Preventive medicine is eliminating a threat to dogs which caused many dog owners to support mosquito spraying.

The threat is heartworm disease, a debilitating and usually fatal disease that afflicts only dogs. The microfilariae (worms) which may eventually become adult heartworms are transmitted from dog to dog by mosquito bites. Veterinarians assure that the heartworm that lives in dogs never is a threat to humans.

Dogs now can be given medicine which kill microfilariae before they can mature into adult heartworms. The medicine is administered at home, sometimes daily but depending upon the size of the dog. The medicine can be obtained only through veterinarians and must be used according to their directions.

Heartworms continued as a serious threat to dogs even through the period when spraying against mosquitoes was rampant and much overdone. In the last six years during which the use of heartworm preventive medicine has increased, there are indications of a decline of the disease. Dr. Edgar W. Tucker of Concord, says. Dr. Tucker is a pioneer in heartworm treatment in the Northeast and was among the first to perform open heart surgery on dogs to remove the parasites.

While there may be several factors involved in an estimated 15 percent decline in occurrence of heartworm cases last year,

Dr. Tucker believes that preventive treatment of dogs has been a significant factor.

Before treatment begins, a sample of blood from the dog is inspected by the veterinarian to determine whether microfilariae are present. If they are absent, preventive medicine - which comes in pill form - may be used. Since the life-cycle of the heartworm requires about eight months to progress from injection of microfilaria to adult heartworm which produces its own swarm of microfilariae, tests in New England ordinarily are made in June.

Before preventive medicine heartworm failed to sweep through the dog population because a mosquito must carry microfilaria in its body 14 to 21 days before it reaches the stage in which it can be transmitted to a dog. Since mortality among mosquitoes is high, many fail to survive the incubating period.

Adult heartworms live in the right ventricle of a dog's heart. They may eventually clog the artery leading to the lungs and cause death. Symptoms which may indicate heartworms are coughing, labored breathing and uncommon weakness in the dog.

Dogs which have heartworms can be treated successfully if the disease is not in advanced stages. The treatment, however, is lengthy and difficult.

White Sox, Giants Take Lead

By Rick Harrison

The American League White Sox and National League Giants have assumed the leadership of their respective divisions in the Andover Little League through Memorial Day action.

The last of the undefeated teams fell last week, as the Indians dropped a pair of games and slipped to second place. Hottest team in either division currently is the NL Pirates, who have captured four straight games to challenge the Giants. In the AL, the White Sox own a five-game win streak.

Hitting stars in the AL with solo homeruns were the Tigers' Eddie Collins, and Dave Birnbach of the Indians. Both these boys also collected pitching victories during the week.

The biggest clutch hit of the week in the NL came off the bat of Seth Lloyd, whose two-out RBI single in the bottom of the eighth inning lifted the Cards to a 3-2 win over the Cubs.

White Sox 7, Indians 3 - The White Sox scored five runs in the first two innings, and then rode the three-hit pitching of Ray Lynch to an important 7-3 victory over the Indians.

Lynch fanned seven batters during his mound stint, besting losing hurler Scott Keller who tossed a four-hitter.

Jim Wetterberg and Mike DeSalvo belted two-run doubles for the Sox, while Ray Lynch and Haden Traub added timely singles.

Dave Birnbach was practically the entire offensive show for the Indians, lashing a pair of doubles for two RBIs.

Tigers 4, Indians 3 - Winning chucker Eddie Collins allowed three hits, whiffing 10 and walking two as the Tigers pulled a major upset in this one.

Collins became stronger as the game progressed, retiring 14 straight batters during one stretch.

Dave Livingston's RBI bunt single in the fifth stanza snapped a 3-3 tie, and boosted the Tigers into the winners' circle.

Hard-hitting Brian Bronson drilled a double and single for the victors, while Dave Alexander and Jeff Brown laced singles.

For the Indians, Eric Goodman spanked a brace of singles and Dave Jones was the losing pitcher.

Indians 5, Red Sox 3 - The Indians got back on the winning track here, thanks to a four-hit hurling effort by Dave Birnbach.

The Indians' chucker also struck out 13 along the way.

The score was knotted 3-3 after the first inning, but Birnbach won his own game with a bases-empty homerun in the third. The Indians then added an insurance score in the top of the fourth.

Birnbach was 2-for-2 in the game, while Scott Keller and Ed Goodman contributed an RBI double and single respectively. Dave Hill was 1-for-3 to round out the Indians' charge.

Dave Farrell was the losing pitcher in relief of Eric Ketzler. Tim Dubois smashed two doubles for two RBIs to power the Sox. Eric Ketzler added a pair of singles, and also starred defensively at shortstop after leaving the mound.

Red Sox 12, Tigers 2 - The Red Sox struck for five runs in the bottom of the first frame to tuck this game away.

Tim Dubois tripled and singled for three RBIs to lead a 10-hit Sox attack. Eric Ketzler spiked a double and single for two RBIs.

Winning pitcher Mike Anderson had an RBI double and scored three runs, while Dave Farrell and Gary Cohen drilled RBI singles. Billy Hall and Robbie Wilkins had singles to complete the offense.

Anderson and Ketzler divided the mound duties, combining for a five-hitter and four strikeouts.

Eddie Collins clouted a solo homerun for the Tigers' big blow. Brian Bronson delivered an RBI single, Craig Mifflin doubled and losing pitcher Dave Alexander stroked a single.

Defensive stars for the Sox were shortstop Dave Farrell (7 chances), second sacker Gary Cohen and catcher Tim Dubois, who cut down his fourth baserunner trying to steal.

White Sox 7, Twins 4 - The defending AL champs notched their fifth consecutive win.

Dave Nardone checked the Twins on five hits while fanning nine. Losing pitcher Dean Russell gave up nine safeties and fanned four.

Ray Lynch slammed two doubles and a single for three RBIs, and Jim Rathbun banged out two hits for a brace of White Sox runs.

Russell helped his own cause by drilling two hits for two RBIs.

Paul Bracken gained the pitching victory with a four-hitter, fanning six and walking just two.

Hard-luck loser for the Braves was Bob Conroy who twirled a five-hitter, striking out 12 and walking only three.

The five Pirates' singles were laced by Lennie Driscoll, Steve Serley, Danny Caselden, Jim Higgins and Travis.

Bill Lucey's two-bagger for the Braves was the only extra-base hit. John Sagaser, Marty Solomon and Conroy had singles.

Cards 9, Mets 3 - The defending town champion Cardinals, losers of some tough decisions in the early going, got untracked and belted the Mets with a 12-hit attack.

Tony Sanchez ripped three singles, Kelly Murphy had a double and single, Dan Grams tripled, Seth Lloyd lashed two singles and winning pitcher Jay Dilorio had a brace of singles for the Cards.

Phil Doherty cracked a two-bagger for the Mets, while losing chucker Ken Southworth and John Blake spiked singles.

Cards' rightfielder Kane Grecoe was a defensive stalwart. Giants 12, Cubs 1 - Frank Pelletier garnered his third mound victory, tossing a five-hitter and fanning eight. Robbie Robinson came on in the sixth inning to retire the Cubs in order.

Pelletier aided himself at the plate with a long triple and single. Stroking two singles each were Rusty Serbagi, Steve Moriarty, Bill Staley and Mike Silverman.

The Giants' fielding wizard for the day was 9-year-old second baseman Carmen Scarpa.

Tom Curtin was the losing hurler and Roy Umanzio stood out defensively in centerfield for the Cubs.

Cards 3, Cubs 2 - The Cards finally won a close game, thanks to Seth Lloyd's clutch single mentioned earlier.

Lloyd's basehit knocked in Kelly Murphy with the winning run, after he had gotten aboard with his third single. Both Murphy and Mark Guittar went 3-for-3 in the contest.

The Cards' Jim Arnold and the Cubs' Paul Farnham locked up in a fine pitcher's duel for five innings. Danny Grams registered the mound win in relief, and Jim Guillet was the hard-luck loser.

Paul Farnham provided the Cubs' offense with three singles.

New Setup

Reorganization of the school administration should be welcome news and we await the formal presentation of the plan due at the June 19 school committee meeting.

We have noted from time to time, in these columns, our dissatisfaction with the direction the administrative setup of the town's education system had been taking.

Now, with the proposed revision, there seems some possibilities of redistribution of assignments and responsibilities with resulting economies.

If such can be accomplished, then the streamlining as outlined last week by Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, superintendent of schools will be worthwhile.

The superintendent's indication of the new chain of command outlined last week, indicates that responsibility for administering the town's school system will follow a natural course, from individual building up through his office.

Among the promising possibilities of the new setup is the establishment of the school principals as being in charge of their buildings, and also the administration of discipline will be within the confines of the building.

Too, the disciplinary activity will not be in the hands of assistant principals alone, but the entire faculty.

Unfortunately such procedures seem necessary in this day and age of permissiveness and outright resentment of authority.

Naturally, disciplinary measures should be initiated in the home, but there is widespread, apparent disregard for such responsibility at its proper level, thus, it must fall to the school system to present the rudimentary requirements of law and order.

Effective enforcement and maintenance of disciplinary procedures is much desired in this day and age.

If such can be accomplished, along with economies within the school department, then the superintendent's new administrative structure will be most welcome.

The Studies

The Planning Board recently issued a reminder to residents of the community of the availability of various studies conducted by and for them.

The reports are available at the building and planning office at town hall, as well as at Memorial Hall library.

It would be well for Andover's citizenry to examine some of these reports, since they deal with current and future problems the community faces individually and on a regional basis.

Some of the reports were done by volunteer citizens' groups, some by the regional planning commission and others through the efforts of professional consultants.

Availability of the reports provides two important things for Andover residents.

It provides them with important information about their town and the concern their municipal officials have for the community.

It also emphasizes the fact that the planning board is more than a small group of citizens examining subdivision plans on occasion.

The area of planning is a most important facet of a modern community as it faces the problems of the '70's and '80's.

Here, in Andover, we have been fortunate to have available people interested in the town's welfare to devote the necessary time and energy to effective planning.

While, we do not always agree with their recommendations and findings, we must admire them for their countless hours of work in examining issues and obtaining substantive reports.

Examination by the public of the reports available at the planning office and the library will lead to a better understanding of the problems being faced by the town, as well as the realization that the planning board works year 'round, not just at town meeting time.

Commendable

An Andover native has attained significant distinction in her field.

Dr. Kathryn A. McCarthy, prominent in the field of education since she entered the profession following graduation in 1944, was named this past week to the position of provost of Tufts University.

The appointment takes on added significance when it is realized that she is only the second woman to attain such a high university post in the New England area for a major co-educational institution.

Dr. McCarthy's career at Tufts has been marked by a continuing record of accomplishment.

She has been acting chairman of the physics department at Tufts and was its first woman dean, having been appointed to that post in 1969, heading the school of arts and sciences.

In her new assignment, she is second to the president of the school in handling all aspects of the academic program.

Our congratulations to Dr. McCarthy as she assumes her new duties.

Based on prior accomplishment, we view the future of Tufts University as being in capable hands.

Off The Top

Of The Desk

For the benefit of those who feel downtown areas are not beneficial for wildlife, we have a note of interest this week.

One of our associates upon entering our 15 Central street offices was nearly hit in the head by a pheasant in flight last Friday afternoon.

The colorful bird sailed past the steps and stopped briefly in the driveway, before continuing its flight, to, no doubt, safer climes.

vehicles were tied up for about 20 miles attempting to cross the Sagamore bridge.

Elm Square in Andover is now complete with its cheery greeting, the police box having its annual complement of floral decorations.

Between the police box, the library landscape and the general area improvement of recent years, one of the main entrances to town extends a pleasant and friendly greeting.

The first extended weekend of the vacation season we hope is not a forecast of things to come.

It was not all that bad, however, until Monday when the rains came down in torrents.

We can hardly wait to hear about the effects of skylab and the astronauts causing the inclement weather not only here, but across the nation the past few weeks.

A story dealing with the statue in front of the police station in North Andover reminds us of the days when the memorial provided what was thought to be a safe hiding place for Johnson High students.

The old high school was on the site of the present police station.

We can recall many apprentice smokers found refuge at the particular location, not knowing they were being observed by retired Principal Alvah G. Hayes, whose reprimands were more severe than the current warning carried on cigarette packages from the surgeon general.

The latest issue of DPW news, a publication of the State department of public works arrived in time to shower plaudits on the department for its creation of a large parking lot in Barnstable.

The parking lot is to accommodate cars using mass transportation facilities and is to be located at Route 6 and Route 132.

Arrival of the notification coincided with a homeward bound trek late Monday which turned the Mid-Cape highway, (route 6) into an extended parking lot as Flowering shrubs need annual pruning - after blossom time - to keep them in shape, encourage development of new wood, boost vigor and to promote prolific blossoming next spring, says Robert A. Bartlett.

Pruning of azaleas should be done lightly, thinning the dense surface growth except where dead branches are to be removed. Andromeda can be reduced in height by heavy pruning after bloom. Rhododendron seldom requires pruning. When it does, be judicious, cutting above whorls of leaves.

A beauty bush can be kept within bounds by reducing the number of old canes. Lilac should be thinned carefully since blossoms appear on two and three-year old wood.

Sweeney To Head Program

Joseph F. Sweeney has been elected chairman of the Greater Lawrence Retired Senior Volunteer program by its 15 member advisory committee. Sweeney is employed in the public relations department, Western Electric, North Andover.

The RSVP project has been in operation since February of this year, the object of the program is to make it possible for any person over sixty years of age and older, to enrich his retirement by contributing his time, talents, and abilities to others in the community. RSVP hopes to place 125 volunteers in public, non-profit, and non-sectarian organizations within the coming year.

Four sub-committees and their chairmen have been appointed:

Henry Fredette, recruitment referral chairman; Alderman Robert J. Lippe, evaluation chairman, director of health and charities; Philip F. Laverriere, public relations chairman, executive director of the Greater Lawrence Neighborhood Youth Corps; Raymond R. Monahan, fund raising chairman, assistant administrator, Mary Immaculate Nursing Home.

It will be up to each sub-committee chairman and task force to stimulate interest in the program and to seek out the potential volunteer. Since the program began, RSVP has secured seven volunteer stations and placed two senior citizens.

Beacon Hill Observations

By Bill Kirtz

A move to give survivors unlimited payment for their family head's wrongful death has passed the Massachusetts Senate 27-4 and is seen likely to receive similar House approval.

The measure would key a family's compensation for the loss of its breadwinner to its actual loss, not -- as now -- on the defendant's guilt.

"We're only one of two states which now have punitive death statutes," says James Dolan, legislative counsel of the Mass. Bar Association. "But the statute should work to assure survivors the minimum dollar loss and maintain family viability. Let the criminal laws impose punishment on the defendant."

Now, $200 thousand is the maximum anyone can get under Massachusetts wrongful death laws. The bill filed by State Sen. Anna P. Buckley (D-Brockton), okayed by the Senate and backed by the Bar Association would set no maximum.

In Mr. Dolan's view, this would encourage wealthy individuals and corporations to increase insurance coverage and so give families a better chance to collect adequate compensation in the after a plane crash or the failure of a car's brakes.

Backers of the measure don't claim it will solve all the problems of just compensation after a tragedy.

The state's minimum insurance liability requirements ($5 thousand per person injured; $10 thousand per accident) haven't been changed in 20 years.

And as a practical matter, a family whose bread-winner has been killed by a moderate-income driver has little chance of collecting much over that amount.

The defendant can declare bankruptcy, and to make him pay his victim's family over the years has been considered by courts to constitute an unacceptable form of "involuntary servitude."

Mr. Dolan believes lawmakers and the public should keep firmly in mind such distinctions between the right to recover and the ability to collect.

He notes, however, that corporations have "deep pockets" and sees no reason why airlines and big producers shouldn't pay much more than $200 thousand maximum damages to the family of a person in whose death they were involved.

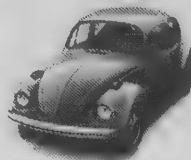

Now, Mr. Dolan believes, the Wrongful Death law is used as a "punishment vehicle." How much a family recovers is based on whether the court judges a defendant to have been slightly negligent, ordinarily negligent, grossly negligent or guilty of "wanton, willful or reckless conduct."

The social and political arguments for the bill are very persuasive this legislative session, says Mr. Dolan, which is why he's optimistic about seeing Mrs. Buckley's bill get through both Houses.

Teenage employment averaged 6.7 million in 1972, or 485,000 above the 1971 level.

Memorial Hall Library

100th Anniversary
Memorial Hall Library was formally opened on Memorial Day, Friday, May 30, 1873. The dedicatory address was given by the Rev. Phillips Brooks in the South Church at 2 p.m. in the afternoon. Prior to the ceremonies, a dinner was served to a large group of friends, and a procession followed from the hotel to the church in the company of "many returned soldiers and the Andover Brass Band." The Rev. Dr. Phillips' address was printed and widely distributed. It contained many lofty thoughts, among them were the following: "Andover is still the true New England town. Upon her new Hall let the morning sun strike with its call to duty, and the evening gather with its benediction of repose. Let its shelves be filled with the noblest and purest literature, that shall speak the same infinite lessons that the tablets utter from its walls. Let the thoughtful and eager young men and women come to its quiet rooms for refreshment and instruction, and drink deep of its influence and go out stronger for the good life."

The celebration in honor of the 100th anniversary of the library will be held in the fall. Many events are planned by the trustees and staff for a major commemoration at that time. However, it seems appropriate to hold one program on the date of the actual anniversary, May 30. The townspeople are invited to hear a talk by Gerald Griffin, Ph.D., Northeastern faculty member, on that date at 8 p.m. in the historic Memorial Hall. His subject will be "Anne Bradstreet - 301 Years of Critical Acclaim." Anne Bradstreet (1616-1672) lived her adult life in Andover; she was the first poetess of the new world. It is very pertinent to our heritage that Dr. Griffin has chosen to speak on this subject. Our goal is to have 100 persons for the 100th anniversary. Here is a good way to demonstrate your loyalty to Memorial Hall Library.

Opera Club
The Library Opera Club will meet on Wednesday, June 6 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Fran McCormick, 4 Elysian Drive, Andover. The public is invited.

Children's Room Notes

Littlest Listeners registration is full fling. We still have some openings so be sure to come soon and register your child. Remember, all children who live in Andover and are 3½ (by October) to 5 years old are eligible, if they do not attend school of any kind and if they have not attended Littlest Listeners before.

Pajama Party is a similar offering. It is a preschool story hour designed for the children who in some way are not eligible for Littlest Listeners. It will meet one evening on alternate weeks. (there will be two groups of 20 children) from 6:15 to 7:15. Due to space, children cannot register for both PJ Party and Littlest Listeners.

Summer programs are shaping up beautifully! Again we are holding a six-week Arts and Crafts Class on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings for children who have completed at least one year of school (including kindergarten).

Two Summer Reading Clubs, a pre-school story hour, and Wednesday afternoon feature length films will be regular events. In addition, we're planning to have four weeks of special programs that you won't want to miss. They are: Zoo Week (including a pet show), a week of Shadows (bet you wonder what that could be), a week of looking at the way Ashanti families in Ghana live and a week devoted to creations made from Boxes (start saving boxes of all types)!

All this will be positively programmed by next week. Registration will begin for all the programs on June 11. Watch this spot for further details!

Easton To Be Alumni Marshal

C. Cabot Easton, 2 Tobey Lane, Andover, a former administrative assistant at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine, will serve as alumni marshal during commencement exercises at the Brunswick, Maine institution on June 9.

A member of the Class of 1948 at Bowdoin, Easton currently serves as development officer at the Harvard Law School.

Profit Sharing Checks Given H.P. Employees

Employees of Hewlett-Packard Company's Medical Electronics Division, Waltham are receiving cash profit-sharing checks totaling $290,784 from the company this week.

This will be the first cash disbursement in 1973 under HP's profit-sharing plan.

Company-wide, HP is distributing $6,514,416 to approximately 18,000 eligible employees.

HP employees eligible to participate receive two profit-sharing checks a year, one at the midpoint and the other at the end of the company's fiscal year.

HP, headquartered in Palo Alto, California, is a major manufacturer of electronic, medical, analytical and computing instruments. HP's Medical Electronics Division manufactures medical and biophysical instrumentation, oscillographs and other recorders. The company has had a profit-sharing policy since its founding in 1939.

A new plant is contemplated in Andover in the near future, to be located in the West Andover industrial park.

Checking Collection Bidders

The town manager and director of public works are awaiting written statements from four contractors bidding on town refuse collection before making any contract awards.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin reported Wednesday that interviews with four contractors had been completed and further information in writing, such as a firm commitment from the out-of-town disposal supervisors, and types of equipment to be used for local pickup, was awaited.

Austin said he was still hopeful of initiating service by July 1.

Town meeting in March appropriated funds to have refuse collected, along with garbage, to be disposed of out of town, in view of pending closing of the town's sanitary landfill site. The Chandler road facility has been ordered closed by state health authorities as of June 1.

Ford Grant Awarded Academy

The Ford Foundation has announced a grant of $30,700 to Phillips Academy for a study of the potential complementary relationships of residential schools and public and private day schools.

The grant stems from the suggestion made by PA Headmaster Theodore Sizer at his installation last September and in his writings that "the residential school should be seen as a different kind of school which a day school student (either public or private) might profitably attend for an appropriate period of months or years. Too often it is only considered as an alternative. The fact is that both kinds of educational experience are needed."

The Ford Grant will be used to finance The Complementary School Project -- an 18 month exploration of the practical possibilities of the idea, which Sizer elaborated in his recently published book, "Place for Learning, Places for Joy." In this book he suggests that a youngster should go to more than one kind of school during his secondary education experience, not just to one.

Dr. Sizer has appointed Jerry Foster, English instructor at Phillips and current Director of the Andover Summer Session, to direct the Complementary School Project.

According to Headmaster Sizer, the grant can help Phillips Academy to review, extend and redefine the student audience it should serve and what the school should be offering. It will also be a practical help in exploring ways and means of improving Andover's connection with youngsters and teachers across the nation, and focussing PA's own resources most effectively in the light of conditions of the '70s. Questions the study will generate are "Who should be at Phillips Academy, for what purpose, and for how long?"

Constable Bickering Continues

Constables are still having a hard time being appointed in Andover.

Town Manager J. Maynard Austin made another attempt Tuesday night in a continuing, annual struggle to designate security people at various industrial plants and schools as special constables, but the selectmen put the matter off again.

Austin had written the board a memo in regard to the duties performed by Phillips Academy guards or security personnel, noting that their town function was in the assistance with traffic duty.

Selectman Alan F. French, who has opposed the appointments annually, insisted he wanted to know the town's legal responsibilities for these appointees.

As the matter was put off to the next meeting of the board, Selectman George E. Heseltine asked the manager if the appointment was necessary for the P. A. people in view of graduation pending soon.

The manager replied in the negative stating "we'll just tell them to stay off the streets and handle the traffic with our own force."

Bigger Bazaar Planned

The 1973 Andover Sidewalk Bazaar, sponsored by the Retail Task Force of the Andover Chamber of Commerce, will take place on Friday and Saturday, June 22 and 23.

Charles Heseltine, Chairman of the Sidewalk Bazaar, has reported that this year's Bazaar promises to be the biggest ever. Planned for the event are five amusement rides, the popular doll carriage parade and Great Race, plenty of music and many other surprises.

Heseltine has called a meeting of all interested organizations for Thursday, May 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Services Room of the Bay State National Bank, Andover. Plans for the Bazaar will be discussed at this meeting.

All community, fraternal and church organizations should send one representative to this brief session. If you have any questions, please call Chairman Heseltine at 475-4451.

Tax Rate

town received $79,000 for regional vocational school participation while expending $114,000. This year the cherry sheets showed receipts from the state of $37,000, while the town will spend $150,000.

In the area of school transportation, this amount was reduced from $167,000 to $145,000.

The manager said that he was quite concerned that with the receipt of federal funds, through revenue sharing, the state now turns around and reduces these economic benefits to communities by changing formulas.

The selectmen are expected to contact local legislators regarding the matter.

Cronin Asks Subsidy Elimination

A freshman Congressman from Massachusetts introduced legislation today to eliminate the farm subsidy program.

"The bulk of farm subsidies," Congressman Paul Cronin (R-Mass) stated, "go to the farmers with the highest income. This amounts to welfare for the wealthy."

Cronin charged that the farm subsidies program is "riddled with instances of repeated abuse and wastefulness." He stated: "It takes a lot of imagination to classify some of the 1972 recipients as farmers. Huge subsidies were doled out to state prison farms, a bowling alley, a railroad, colleges and universities, a state mental hospital and large national corporations."

"While the federal government was paying more than $4 billion for these programs last year," Cronin continued, "the American consumer was paying another $4.5 billion in higher food prices."
